

Yankees Open Western Tour With Easy Victory—Kelly's Clean-Up Homer Wins for Giants

Record Home Run for Ruth; Shawkey Humbles White Sox

Chicago Starts Scoring, but League Leaders Get Busy in Third Inning and Clinch Game When Team Bats All the Way Around for Half Dozen Tallies

By Charles A. Taylor

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The Yankees made a grand and glorious start on the road to pennant today by giving the White Sox a frightful trouncing. The score in favor of the Hugs was 11 to 3 when a rain storm broke up the game in the eighth inning.

The New Yorkers showed no respect for the four Chicago twirlers who faced them. Wilkinson was their first victim, and after he had been chased from the lot, McWeeney, Wienecke and Twombly were offered up as sacrifices by Manager "Kid" Gleason.

The 12,000 spectators were disgusted at the showing of their ball nine and just lingered around to watch Babe Ruth lose the old horseshoe. Babe obliged in the sixth inning. Wienecke, a southpaw, served the ball, which was propelled by the Sultan of Swat over the right field fence for the longest homer the Babe has ever hit in Chicago. The ball was still traveling at a high rate of speed when its progress was halted by an armory.

Bob Shawkey did the pitching for New York, and after a somewhat wobbly start settled down to real business. Not a hit did the White Sox get from Bob after the fifth inning.

Score on an Odd Play

The Sox scored a run in the first inning, which Johnson opened with a single to center. Mulligan followed with another safety to the same territory. Eddie Collins sacrificed, pitcher to first. Strunk batted one down to Pipp, the ball hitting Wally on the foot and then bouncing to Ward, who tossed out Strunk at first. Johnson scored on the odd play.

The Yanks made this one run look lonesome in the third, when the Gotham lads batted all the way around. Five runs were scored, including the lanky Wilkinson, the Sox pitcher, was removed in favor of McWeeney.

Wally Schang began the fruitful third by drawing a walk. Shawkey decided to center, putting his battery mate on third. Miller hit safely over second, scoring Schang. Peckinpaugh sacrificed. Ruth walked, and Baker also straggled, filling the bases and ending Wilkinson's stay in the box. McWeeney, the next Chicago pitcher, was no improvement. He promptly walked, forcing Shawkey in with a run. Collins tossed out Pipp, but Ruth scored on the play.

Ward doubled off Mulligan's glove. Baker hit a home run, and the White Sox counted with the sixth run on a wild pitch, when McWeeney uncorked a wild pitch.

Shawkey Slightly Perturbed

The White Sox worried Shawkey a bit in their half of the fifth, but he fished out a single by Collins and a double by Peck, a single by Collins and a double by Strunk manufacturing two runs.

In the fourth the Yanks broke loose again, singles by Shawkey and Peck, an infield out and a double steal netting two tallies. With Wienecke pitching for Chicago in the fifth, the Hugs men picked up the bases and ending Wilkinson's stay in the box. McWeeney, the next Chicago pitcher, was no improvement. He promptly walked, forcing Shawkey in with a run. Collins tossed out Pipp, but Ruth scored on the play.

The sixth inning was the occasion of Ruth's terrific clout over the fence. Peck, who had walked, led the jubilation. Babe across the plate. The game was turned by rain at the start of the eighth, just after Bob Meusel had smashed out a triple.

I COULD TELL A LOT OF GOSSIP IF I WOULD. I'M RECKING IN NICE JUICY SCANDAL—I'M FULL OF INFORMATION

ONCE IN A WHILE A MAN DROPS IN TO TALK BUSINESS BUT VERY VERY SELDOM—THEY MAKE IT BRIEF BECAUSE I'M PRETTY WARM INSIDE

I WISH I HAD A DOLLAR FOR EACH TIME A MAN COMES IN HERE TO TELL HIS WIFE HE'S AT HIS OFFICE IN A BUSINESS CONFERENCE AND WON'T BE HOME TILL LATE

AND MUSH TALK! WOW! I GET SO FED UP AND SICKENED OF THE SLUSH I'M FORCED TO LISTEN TO!!

I KNOW THE STUFF BY HEART. "HELLO TWEETIE—HOW'S MY TWEETIE—GOSH! IT'S AWFUL. AND THE KISSES THEY SEND!"

AND THEN THERE'S THE GUESSING CONTEST. "CAN YOU GUESS WHO THIS IS?" I HEAR THAT A LOT—AND THEY TRY TO DISGUISE THEIR VOICES AND THEN THEY GIGGLE

LATELY I HEAR A LOT OF CONVERSATION LIKE THIS "I CAN GET YOU ANOTHER CASE OF THE SAME STUFF FOR A HUNDRED AND A QUARTER."

I'M A SIGHT INSIDE! I'VE GOT SCRATCHES AND PENCIL MARKS AND TELEPHONE NUMBERS ALL OVER.

Wheat Muffs Ball And Dodgers Lose Chance for Victory

Umpire O'Day Calls Game, With Only One More Out To Be Registered

A drizzling rain, Umpire Hank O'Day and Captain Zach Wheat prevented the Dodgers from winning a ball game at Ebbets field yesterday. The Dodgers were leading 3 to 1 in the first half of the fifth inning, two Cardinals had been retired and with one more out it would have been an official game. But with these balls in play, Umpire O'Day called the game.

The contest had been previously delayed forty-five minutes at the end of the fourth inning and when play was resumed the Dodgers were seeking to get a full game. The Cardinals were very tardy in going to their positions, but the rain held off until they were up for their half of the fifth.

Joe Schultz, the first batter, hit an easy fly to left field, but the wet ball slipped through Wheat's hands and was caught by the Cardinals. Schultz then went to Wheat and Hornsby, struck out, and if Wheat had caught Schultz's fly it would have been three and three called on him when O'Day called time on account of the downpour and the Dodgers were unfortunately deprived of winning the game.

Walter "Dutch" Rutherford was one of the unfortunates of the day. He was the Brooklyn pitcher and was doing fine work in the pinches. Jimmy Johnson was also in the pinches. Jimmy Johnson was also in the pinches. Jimmy Johnson was also in the pinches.

The Dodgers scored two runs in the first inning. Olson walked, but Johnson forced him. Neil then tripled to center field, scoring Jimmy. Neil counted on Wheat's infield out.

St. Louis got one run back in the third. But Rutherford finally extricated himself from a deep hole. Donk singled to center and Mann executed a safe punt. Schultz sacrificed and Donk scored on Stock's infield out. Rutherford walked. Rutherford and Fournier, but McHenry fled to Schmandt.

The third Brooklyn run came with two out in the third, when Johnson hit a home run into the left field stands.

There will be a double-header with the Cardinals at Ebbets field today as a result of yesterday's postponement.

Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn's leading pitcher, will celebrate his twenty-eighth birthday today, but it is not likely that he will appear in the double-header, as he pitched against the Giants on Tuesday.

Buffalo Again Victor Over Skeeters, 11 to 5

A correspondent informs us of the best trapped golf hole in America. "Playing in Minnesota," he writes, "I hooked my tee shot to the edge of a hornet's nest, and in playing my second was stung twice. I hooked my second to the edge of the woods and found the ball within two feet of a big rattlesnake. I've always said they were going to keep on trapping courses until at last they became ridiculous."

The next move some commission will make will be to bar old "Babe" Adams, who, at thirty-nine, has broken the season's record for consecutive victories. Some one should tip "Babe" off to the fact that he is past the age of physical prowess, and that he should be knitting in place of putting a hop on his fast one or otherwise baffling a lot of kids.

Connie Mack's landlord has evidently refrained from jumping up the rent, as Connie is now spending his seventh season in the same location. Whether or not he has had any of the cellar woodwork done over or any new papering completed is unknown.

The Right Habit

Dr. Fielding H. Yost, now full professor of athletics at Michigan, was discussing form.

"Form," he said, "is merely the right habit—the habit of doing a thing in the right way."

"Form," once Hughey Keogh wrote, "is the brief interval between getting ready and going stale." But what "Hek" actually meant here was condition, not form.

"The star performer in any game," says Yost, "is the one who has the right habit so developed that he doesn't have to think about what he is doing. I mean by that he doesn't have to think about the mechanical operation of the play. Until it becomes a matter of habit and instinct, it is always sure to be erratic."
